Fr Paul writes:

I had a meeting last Wednesday with Councillor Allan Kauffman (Hillingdon Council) and a colleague regarding the planned redevelopment of the Arla site across the road from the Church. I am sure most people are aware of plans for some new housing, an Asda store, a cinema and several eating places there. The original plans were rejected and modified ones approved. Where these impinge on us will be a widening of Victoria Road (with loss of current green verges) to accommodate the increased volume of traffic, and a loss of parking facilities immediately outside the Church. There will, however, be increased parking spaces on the new site. The junctions with Long Drive and West Mead will be re-designed to deal with the projected flow of traffic. There will be new pedestrian crossings (with lights) roughly where the present unused lights are. The bus-stop on the church side of Victoria Road will be nearer the Church. The councillor emphasised that there will be further consultations before the present plans are finalised. It would be good if we had a small group of parishioners to monitor developments and to make sure that the Council knows our concerns. Let me know if you might like to be involved.
