St. Peter and St. Paul - Year B - Mass Book page 171

Fr Paul writes:

Peter and Paul. The twin pillars of the Church have always been linked together in it's celebrations. Simon's confessing of his belief in Jesus earned him the name Peter and with it the responsibility for guiding and strengthening his brothers and so for building up the Church. God's amazing ways are shown by his giving a position of such importance to a simple individual with no apparent talents except fishing and some one who was not always completely faithful to him. Paul, a late-comer to Christian belief, but educated and articulate. He is always full of energy and love for the one whom he had persecuted and now was to him his chosen instrument in making known to the pagans the good news of salvation.

Each of them had his place in the development of the faith. Peter, the guide, by his role of direction and confirmation. Paul, the sower, by his enthusiasm and energy. Their meetings in Jerusalem and Antioch show up their common inspiration as well as their differences. It is in Rome, where they were both martyred, that they were finally united in that love they strove to proclaim.

May their prayers encourage Pope Francis in his role as the successor to Peter and in his as teacher and preacher to all the world.

After all Masses today their will be the traditional collection - Peter's Pence, to provide Pope Francis with funds to help others in need.
